BASC – the big picture

Our mission is to promote and protect sporting shooting and the well-being of the countryside throughout the United Kingdom and overseas. We represent our members' interests by providing a voice for sporting shooting which includes wildfowling, game, and rough shooting, deer stalking, target shooting and air gunning, pigeon shooting and pest control, gun dogs, promoting practical habitat conservation, training and the setting of standards and undertaking appropriate research.

What are our key aims?

BASC is a national representative body for sporting shooting. We have five strategic objectives:

- A strong and unified voice for shooting
- All party backing for shooting
- High standards in shooting
- Continued opportunity to go shooting
- Balanced comment in the media

Your subscription funds all BASC political, media and other projects and maintains the focus on our key objectives.

At the same time it helps to ensure that we deliver valuable services to members who need our help:

- Protecting and promoting shooting
- Promoting the conservation benefits of shooting
- Giving legal guidance on firearms ownership, use and shooting rights
- Providing news and updates on shooting issues

All your subscription is spent on keeping shooting safe - nothing else.

Pigeon shooters

The BASC pigeon shooting team brings together members of BASC staff from different departments, all of whom share a passion for pigeon shooting. This team works hard to maintain your shooting opportunity, not least by working to maintain the open general licence structure.

If you are a pigeon shooter you should join BASC.

Gundogs

The BASC gundog team is made up of staff from various BASC departments, all of whom are keen gundog owners. This team aims to give gundog owners and workers a point of contact within BASC for help and guidance. The team also works on a local and national level to protect the interests of all who own and work gundogs.

If you enjoy training and working dogs, you should join BASC.

Airgunning

The dedicated BASC airgun working group is made up of staff members from various BASC departments, all of whom are keen airgunners and / or have expert knowledge in airgun law. This team's remit is not only to offer great membership service and guidance, but also to work hard to ensure there are no unfair or unjust restrictions on the legitimate ownership and use of airguns.

If you enjoy airgunning, you should join BASC.

Wildfowling

The wildfowling team is headed up by a very experienced wildfowler, and is here to help all wildfowlers to keep their shooting safe. It works on a local, regional, national and international level.

If you go wildfowling you should join BASC.

Stalking

The BASC stalking team is made up of stalkers with decades of experience of stalking in the UK and Europe. Through them you have access to a dedicated BASC department whose remit is not only to offer great membership service and guidance, but also to work hard to ensure the future of stalking in the UK.

If you are a stalker you should join BASC.

Game and gamekeeping

The BASC game and gamekeeping team comprises experienced game shooters, shoot managers and gamekeepers. They provide a full-time, professional service for all aspects of game shooting, shoot management and gamekeeping. Their work also involves protecting and promoting the livelihoods and sport of game shooters and gamekeepers across the UK.

If you are a gamekeeper or go game shooting you should join BASC.

Angling Trust

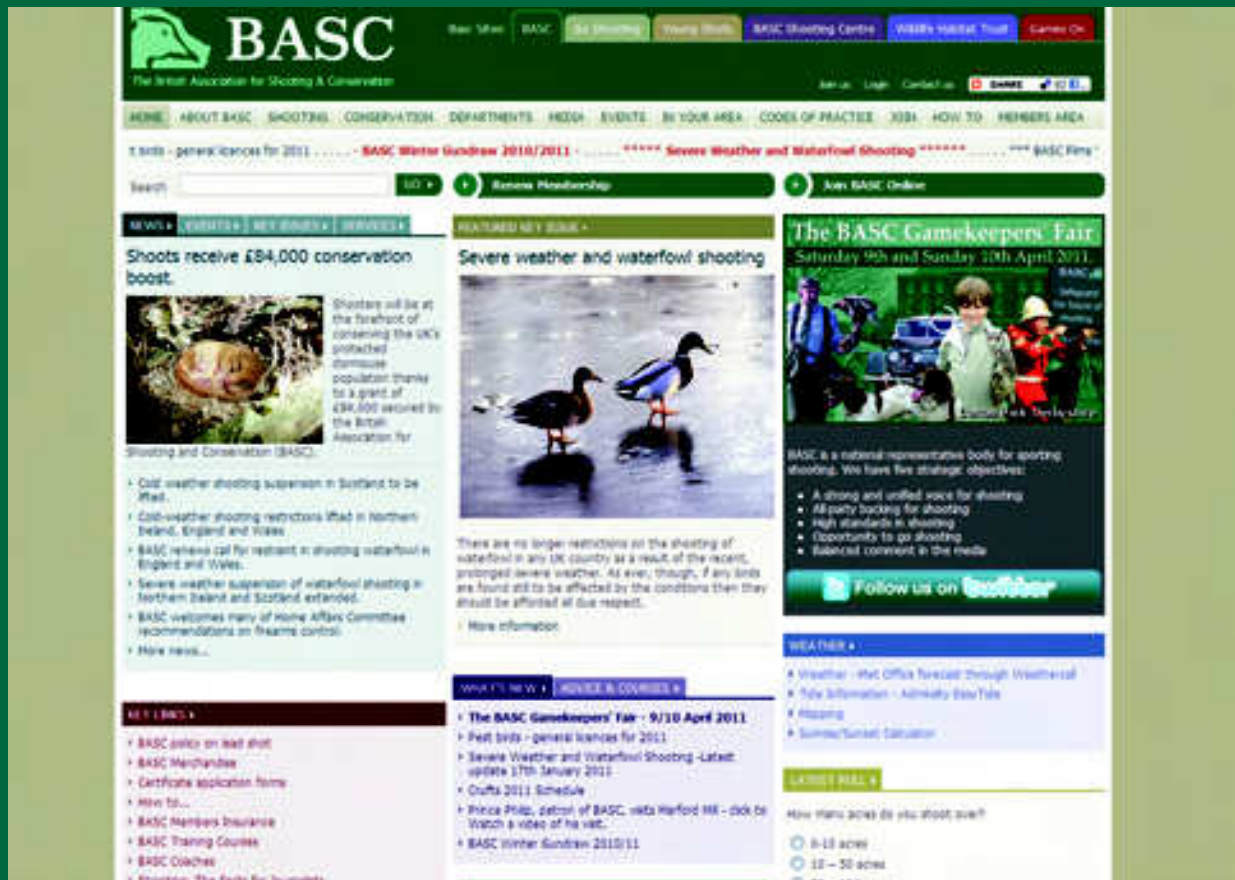

The Angling Trust is the representative organisation for angling in England. We campaign against pollution, abstraction, commercial over-fishing at sea, hydropower, cormorant predation, poaching, illegal canoeing and other threats. Our legal team is fighting more than 60 legal cases against polluters.

If you shoot you should join BASC. If you fish you should join the Angling Trust.
